A TELEGRAM from Paris announces

They are such as will challenge belief. They are exacting—in the prescut condition of France they are cruelly exacting, and must forever stain the fame of Prussia. One wrong does not make another right. It will therefore be vain for Germans to attempt to justify the inexorable Bismarck by what the First Napoieon performed in his day in Prussia.
Aftere and Mitz are to become Prussian territory; the French are to pay an indemnity of one thousand milliard missioners, has accepted these terms protection.

Prussia has paled their ineffectual violated their contracts by hunting and living in idleness, and by stealing from their employers. The effect to huntions of valuable lives and two thousands of property destroyed? France certainly pays the piper for this last dance.
